National Taiwan University

Is now inviting applications for a full time faculty positions in food processing

National Taiwan University is searching for one highly motivated and creative individual to conduct research and teaching in food processing. Candidates ought to have a Ph.D. degree and excellent interpersonal skills, willingness to work in a team, and oral/written competence in Chinese as well as English. The position will be effective on August 1, 2014.

To assure full consideration, all application materials (4 copies) must be received by January 3, 2014. Applicants need to prepare a letter of application, curriculum vitae, undergraduate and graduate transcripts, a copy of Ph.D. diploma, Ph.D. dissertation or a representative paper (a full research paper published in a SCI journal after August 1, 2009, the applicant must be the first author or corresponding author and submit a verification of co-author’s contribution), copies of publications (published after August 1, 2007), list of publications, patents, technology transfer or other related creative performance, and an essay (no more than 10 pages) outlining teaching and research visions. Three letters of recommendation including one letter from a dissertation advisor must be mailed directly by the references. The recommendation letters should be from the advisors, supervisors or colleagues of the applicant. Position announcement can be found at http://www.fst.ntu.edu.tw. Please contact the Director, Prof. Roch-Chui Yu (e-mail: yurc@ntu.edu.tw) for further questions.

Application materials (the applying field should be notified on the envelope) should be sent by registered mail to:

Faculty Search Committee
Graduate Institute of Food Science and Technology
National Taiwan University
No. 1, Sec. 4, Roosevelt Road, Taipei, Taiwan 10617

It should be stated if the applicant needs the paper documents to be returned afterwards.